Fast Facts

- NABIP submitted a response to the RFI earlier this week from HHS, DOL and the Treasury Department on how best to ensure coverage and access to over-the-counter preventive services (including the benefits of requiring most health insurance plans to cover these services at no cost and without a prescription).
- The National Association of Insurance Commissioners held its Fall Conference in Orlando from November 30 through December 4. NABIP staff attended the event, with NABIP CEO Jessica Brooks-Woods featured as a speaker for one of the NAIC's task forces.
- Have you asked your senators to support the Employer Reporting Improvement Act (S. 3204) and the Paperwork Burden Reduction Act (S. 3227)? The House already passed both bills in June; if these vital pieces of legislation are passed by the Senate, the landmark bills will be sent to the president's desk and signed into law. Please urge your senator to co-sponsor these bills! You can also ask your employer clients to send a message to their lawmakers here.
- On this week's episode of the Healthcare Happy Hour: NABIP Director of State Affairs Max Karlin makes his podcast debut to discuss his experience attending NAIC with NABIP CEO Jessica Brooks-Woods. Additionally, John Greene discusses our RFI response and shares some Congressional news.
- Jessica Brooks-Woods was also recently featured on the Paytient podcast, where she highlighted several benefit strategies that give employees more equitable access to healthcare amid rising costs over the next few years. Listen to the episode here.
- Applications are being accepted for the Legislative Achievement Award, Spirit of Freedom Award and Legislative Excellence Award. Each of these awards will be presented at Capitol Conference in February, where we will recognize individual members and state and local chapters for their accomplishments during 2023. The deadline for applications is January 15.
